

ABSTRACT

A patch for reducing exposure to ultraviolet (UV) radiation includes a first layer that is adhesive. The patch includes a second layer. The second layer includes a material adjacent to the first layer. At least one of the first and second layers is opaque to UV radiation.